NCAAR is committed to and respects the privacy of every visitor to our website. We collect no personal information about you when you visit our website. In addition, any personal information you give us through email messages, surveys, forms, etc. is not maintained or used by us except as intended or authorized by you.

Our Use of Cookies and IP Addresses

We may send cookies (a temporary text file) to your computer in order to enhance your use of our website. Cookies allow web applications to respond to you as an individual. Our web application can then tailor its operations to your individual needs and interests. These files also help us to gather and compile aggregate data that can lead to website improvements. You can block or deny our cookie, but you may lose some website functionality as a result. In addition to the use of cookies, we also collect an IP (Internet Protocol) address from all visitors to our website. Among other purposes, we use IP addresses to diagnose problems with our server, analyze trends, and gather broad demographic information to aid us in managing and improving our website. IP addresses do not provide us with any identifiable personal information.
